21.5 SEC. BEHIND MARK

Driscoll Wins 'Casey 600,' Becoming Permanent Owner of Archbishop Hayes Trophy.

Joe Ray of the Illinois Athletic Club of Chicago, who a few days ago hung up a new world's record for a mile and a quarter, last night tried to shatter his own amateur two mile mark at the annual indoor games of the New York Chapter, Knights of Columbus, in the Twenty-second Regiment Armory, but failed. The event was a two mile handicap and attracted a half dozen of the best distance runners in the country.

Although he allowed his rivals handicaps ranging from 40 yards to 150 yards, Ray won the event by a margin of 50 yards in 9 minutes 13.4-5 seconds. This is 21.5 seconds behind his own figures and 41.5 seconds slower than the world's record made by Alfred Shrubbs, the English athlete, more than a decade ago.

Acting Mayor Murray Hulbert fired the gun which sent the field on its way. William Stokely of the St. Christopher Club, who had the limit allowance of 150 yards, shot to the front at the start and managed to hold command for the first half mile, with Arthur Cassott of the Glenoe A. C., who was in receipt of 140 yards, in second place. R. Earl Johnson of Pittsburgh, five and ten mile national champion, was runner in third position, while Ray was far behind hunched with the other contestants.

Johnson Shows Way.
The field ran in this order until the tenth lap, when Johnson forged to the front, followed by Cassott. Stokely was next, closely followed by Ray. This quartet ran in this order for two more laps. Then Ray lengthened his stride and quickly overhauled the leaders. From this point until he flashed across the finish line, fifty yards in front of Johnson, the little Illinois runner was never headed. Cassott finished third.

Despite the fact that Ray failed to break a record the little Westerner ran a cracking race. If any of the contestants were able to press him in the final lap he probably would have hung up a new mark.

Ray's fractional time was: Half, 2:10.5; three-quarters, 3:21.5; mile, 4:31.5; mile and a quarter, 5:43.5; mile and a half, 6:54.5; mile and three-quarters, 8:05.

The 'Casey 600,' the secondary feat, was won by James W. Driscoll of Boston College, in the time of 1 minute, 13.4-5 seconds. This was just two-fifths of a second behind the record.

By winning the event the Boston collegian became the permanent owner of the 'Archbishop Hayes' trophy, one of the handiwork cups in the athletic world. It was the third consecutive year Driscoll won the race. William E. Stevenson of Princeton University, was second, and Sis Leslie of the New York A. C., national champion at this distance, was third. Larry Brown of the University of Pennsylvania, was fourth.

THE LISTENING POST

By WALTER TRUMBULL

IT SEEMS ALL WRONG.
When Mitchell and Duncan, or Vardon and Ray
Go out on a course, we arise with the day
And follow around to observe how they play.

With brassie or mashie or iron we see
Them shoot round a corner or over a tree
And carlessly sink a long putt for a three.

We watch from the start of each stroke till they're through it
And mark what they do, and how easy they do it,
Until we conclude that there isn't much to it.

So, knowing their system, a game we essay;
But still cannot shoot, to our wrath and dismay,
Like Mitchell and Duncan, or Vardon and Ray.

FADING AWAY.

The casualties among Jimmy Johnston's heavyweights have been terrible. You may remember that James decided to put a little system into this matter of finding a challenger for Dempsey, so he advertised. He would seem to be some ad writer. From the replies, who came in person, he organized a brigade.

He split up the brigade and fought the members of it against each other until his forces were reduced in order to a regiment, a battalion, a company, a platoon and a squad. That was just enough for Jimmy to handle comfortably, but look at it now! All he has left is one private, second class.

James Joy admits that the survivor may be second class right now, but claims that he has the makings of a general. The last of the Johnston forces has a name that is a sort of contraction of that of his leader. It is John-John-John-John—if we remember correctly. Jimmy says that it is going to be a wonder, and anyone who knows James knows him to be ultra conservative about any man he is managing. Jimmy wouldn't have more think of exaggerating than a fisherman, or maybe Ananias, would.

It is more blessed, so it's said, to give;
But that means giving freely, not for fame.
Or grudgingly, or through a sense of shame.
Giving's whole value is in hearts that live
To make life brighter with their steady flame.

The fact that Joe Fitzpatrick is going to the training camp with the Giants is really due to his friendship with Frank Frisch. Joe is a young infielder who went to Fordham for a little while and who has played considerable baseball around New York. Frisch regarded his ability so highly that he told McGraw about him. Frank certainly should know an infielder when he sees one.

A diplomat is one who can make somebody believe that he is distressed that he cannot do something, when it either is too much trouble or there is something else that he'd rather do.

The average baseball bug-takes just as much interest in a meeting of club owners as he does in the theories of Aristotle, the country of the Ashanti or the batting average of an umpire.

Wise old Alonzo Stagg of Chicago University pulled a pretty good line when he said, in speaking of the college baseball problem, "You can't mix cash and character." It's all right when a man can get his money at the cashier's window, but when he has to slip around to the alley door to collect it is something else again.

We grow so tired of the noise and crowds,
The selfishness, the small ideals and cheap
Which day renews, that gratefully we creep
Beneath night's blanket, dark and soft and deep.
See the star candles snuffed by little clouds
And seek for rest and happy dreams in sleep.

THE time is not far distant when France will have to be taken into consideration in the annual diamond battles for the baseball championship of the world. Jacques Seraphin, a prominent sportsman, has called a meeting for next Tuesday to organize the first French baseball league, and probably separate leagues for the northern, central and southern sections of France, from which French champions will be chosen.

He has obtained the support of members of the American Legion, who will act as trainers of the first French organized team. He expects also to obtain the financial support of the French Government.

Annual Report of the Conservation Commission.
Increased receipts and decreased expenditures are noted in the eleventh annual report of the Conservation Commission for the year 1921, transmitted to the Legislature by John J. Stanley, who retired from the commission December 31 to assume his new duties as Justice of the Supreme Court.

For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1921, the receipts of the Conservation Commission were the largest in its history. During the six months ended December 31, 1921, as a result of statutory changes and various administrative economies there was a decrease in expenditures, except for an increase for reforestation work.

A bureau for the prevention of stream pollution has been organized, without the addition of any new employees, for the purpose of working out a practical plan for conserving the State's aquatic resources through the prevention of the pollution of the waters of the State by sewage and industrial wastes.

Nearly 25,000 acres have been added to the State's forest preserve, nearly all of which is of the virgin forest type.

Transpass upon the forest preserve during the year has been negligible, the cases being very few in number and trivial in amount. The total damage amounting to less than $200.

The fishing boat America has been making regular trips to the offshore grounds ever since the cod put in an appearance last December and during the last week the boat fished at the Seventeen Fathom Bank with

DEFEAT OF ARMOUR
UPSET AT BELLEAIRWestchester - Biltmore Golf
Secretary Loses to Augustus,
4 and 3.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
BELLEAIR HEIGHTS, Fla., Feb. 15.—Ellsworth Augustus, the long driving Cleveland golfer, did not rank as one of the favorites in the Washington's Birthday tournament now running here, but he did a good job to-day when he disposed of T. D. Armour, the new Westchester-Biltmore Country Club secretary, who was regarded as almost certain to win the event. Augustus won by a margin of 4 and 3. After being 2 up on the twelfth he sank a mashie shot on the thirteenth for a birdie 3 and this seemed to settle the issue. Augustus won on the fifteenth, where Armour took three putts.

Henry J. Topping of Greenwich is still in the fight after defeating Dewitt Balch, Cincinnati champion. Topping was 1 down on the thirteenth, but pulled out by a margin of 1 on the last hole. He will meet John G. Anderson of Swayno to-morrow. The latter played brilliant golf considering the very strong wind. He was even 4 at the fourteenth hole, where his match with W. R. Harvey of Pine Valley came to an end.

The other semi-finalist is Joseph Schlotman of Detroit. The latter won by default from W. L. Richards of the Engineers Club, who sprained his back while hitting a few practice shots this morning.

Gov. Lake of Connecticut was one of the winners in the third sixteen, although he had to go twenty holes to dispose of Col. E. W. Hester of Essex county.
